

You, and your staff, are missionaries

You, and your staff, are missionaries...

This week's message was scheduled to be a different topic. But I changed it at the last minute (thus the tardiness). The death of a recent graduate of one of our schools has shaken me today.

I don't pretend to know all the details of this student's struggles but I do know that the two NCC schools he attended were positive influences in his life. For that, I am so grateful. And it reminded me of the quote I'd seen earlier from Barbara Coloroso.

You and your staff are doing the most important work the
